h. r. fairclough [1] But the queen, long since smitten with a grievous love-pang, feeds the wound with her lifeblood, and is wasted with fire unseen. Oft to her mind rushes back the hero's valour, oft his glorious stock; his looks and words cling fast to her bosom, and longing withholds calm rest from her limbs.

Life's three strongest natural affections are filial, conjugal, and parental love; of the first of these, in Dido's case, we learn nothing; of the second she has been abruptly robbed, while the third she has never had ...
